VOL. NO. 6

CATAWBA TO BE GIVEN FULL RIGHTS AS CITIZENS

South Carolina Commission Would also Give Them More Land.

York, S. C., Feb. 10.—The granting to the Indians of full citizenship, the continuation of the present reservation, the purchase of 600 additional acres along the Catawba river and the laying off of the latter tract in farms of 75 acres, the building thereon of necessary houses and purchase of farm implements, tools, or mule and cow and allotment of them to heads of families desiring them; and the appointment of a commission of three men to have complete control and management of the reservation—these are the most important recommendations made by the commission appointed by Governor Cooper a year ago to study the question and suggest terms for a final settlement between the state of South Carolina and the Catawba Indians.

Other recommendations are: The erection on the reservation of suitable buildings for schools and religious worship; the providing of one white teacher; that a debt now on the reservation be paid; that an expert farmer be appointed to advise the Indians on the proposed 75-acre tracts be given the title in fee, at the end of five years in cases where they prove worthy.

The commission has held several conferences with the Indians, and heard a full expression of their views on what should constitute the terms of settlement. Briefly stated, the Indians asked that they be allowed 60 acres of land, each, in addition to the land they now own; that they retain title; that suitable houses be erected on these tracts and farm implements provided; and that the state make an annual allowance of $300 per head for 20 years.

The Indians have been seeking a final settlement with the state for a number of years, and have agreed with their present status and condition. They contend that in 1811 the state leased an area of about 15 square miles from them and agreed to pay an annual rental thereof of $5,000 for 99 years. The state then leased lands of land to settlers, the result being that the state received the area now comprising the reservation in eastern York became the property of white people. The Indians claim that the rental money was never paid them.

The Catawba Indians now number 135—a pitiful remnant numerically of a once populous tribe that had invaded a wide territory in North and South Carolina. Of this number only about 75 still live on the reservation, the others having been scattered to other parts of the state. They are not to be blamed for leaving the reservation. So rough, rocky and poor is the land set apart for them that less than 100 acres can be profitably cultivated there and the Indians moved to other places where the opportunities were better for livelihood.

The Catawbas have been wards of the state for the last 80 years. For a long time the state has paid $2,500 annually for them. In their present status they can not acquire private property and are denied the privilege of marriage.

The resolution passed by the general assembly under the terms of which the governor appointed a commission to study the question and suggest the basis for a final settlement with the Indians was introduced by W. B. Bristow, of York, then chairman of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives.

INCREASING NUMBER OF TYPHUS CASES ALARMS

Washington, Feb. 10.—Alarmed by the increasing number of cases of typhus among immigrants entering in the port of New York, federal health authorities tonight were engaged in a study of methods to prevent introduction of the dread disease into the United States.

The situation at New York, where more than 30 immigrants are aboard ships suffering from typhus, was brought to the attention of President Wilson last today in a telegram from Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York health commissioner. The president's attention was called to the situation by the provisions of the quarantine act of 1903 granting the president authority in the interest of the public health to prohibit in whole or in part the admission to the United States of countries and property of such countries or ports as he may designate and for such a time as he may deem necessary.

The 120 vessels of Canada's fur trade industry is placed at $8,000,000.

DRUGS AND SLEEP

By H. Addington Bruce.

Less and less superlatively are medical men prescribing drugs to remedy chronic sleeplessness. Their reluctance to resort to artificial sleep inducers springs from various sources, but chiefly from growing appreciation of the fact that the more drugs are used the greater becomes the insomnia's dependence on them.

Deprived of the drug which he has found efficacious, his sleeplessness is likely to return forthwith. Still worse, the drug itself may in time no longer be efficacious, and because of acquiring a deplorable drug habit, remains wakeful despite taking his favorite drug in highly poisonous amount.

In part at all events the explanation of this is to be found in the interesting circumstance that "going to sleep" is usually a psychological as well as a physiological process.

The person so blessed that he falls asleep almost as soon as he lies down, and such expectation of prompt sleep. His expectation is all the other way. Consciously or subconsciously, he is obsessed with the idea of sleeping, and because of this his unfortunate self-suggestion he does stay awake.

Obviously, the suggestion to wakefulness may remain, however potent the sleep-causing properties of a drug. If it does, the potency of the drug must diminish in proportion as the system becomes tolerant of it.

In fact, it is possible to argue that drug taking positively enhances the state of anti-sleep suggestiveness. The man killed one physician—Dr. C. B. Pearson of Cantonville, Mo.—recently affirming:

"The use of narcotics abolishes nature's method of inducing sleep by self-suggestion. This happens because the suggestions that obtain with the passing into and into sleep are entirely different."

"When this happens there is to my way of thinking nothing left to do but to train the patient back into normal and to keep the patient sleeping normally every night over a long period of time to enable normal impressions to obliterate the impressions of abnormality received from the repeated narcotics."

Of course, the use of drugs is justifiable when it is imperative to cure a disease of chronic sleeplessness—for example, in gaining relief from extreme physical pain. And not all insomnia is due to anticipation and suggestion. Disturbed bodily conditions may be responsible, the cure of which is a prerequisite to the return of normal sleep.

But for most insomnias narcotics through drugs is undoubtedly more than useless. Psychological treatment is the most important. Belief that they can and will sleep readily and soundly.

Let me add, moreover, that most insomnias can develop such a belief for themselves through hygienic living and repeated, conscious suggestion of the idea, "I can sleep."

PROFESSIONAL CAREER OF PADEREWSKI IS ENDED

PIANO PLAYER IS ENDED

Distinguished Polish Musician Makes Announcement Upon Arrival at New York—Will Go to California.

New York, Feb. 13.—The professional piano-playing career of the world famous Paderewski is at an end.

The distinguished Polish musician, whose activity as a pianist has delighted the music lovers of two continents for more than a generation, announced his retirement from the concert stage, confirming the fact that his disheveled and weary body has whitened the long and busy hair of a man of years.

Five years of hard mental labor and the strain of international politics have left their imprint on Paderewski's features. Old age and worry have whitened the long and busy hair of a man of years.

HAVE YOU LOST ANY MONEY?

During a period of depression you almost daily see the fact chronicled that some firm has gone into bankruptcy and left its creditors "in the hole."

Newspapers are fortunate along this line. They seldom lose money on account of a bankruptcy.

Merchants who advertise seldom make an assignment. The steady advertiser does business all along.

FOUR NEGROES KILLED IN SOUTHERN FREIGHT DEPOT BY EXPLOSION

Unexplained Blast Injures Four Others and Does Property Damage of $150,000.

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 9.—An unexplained explosion occurred at the freight depot of the Southern railway here at 5 p. m., killing four men, injuring four and causing a property damage estimated at $150,000.

The men killed were negro freight handlers. But one of them, Ed Davenport, has been identified. The other bodies are burned to a crisp. Among the injured are two firemen. They are only painfully hurt.

The Augusta arsenal was shipping 7,500 pounds of flares to Charleston. The depot contained a large quantity of flares. A few minutes afterwards the flares exploded, the fire having reached them, and it was in this explosion that the men were killed. One theory is that the first explosion was of gasoline, but the railroad agent says that has no in formation of any high explosive having been stored in the building. The property loss is augmented by the fact that, in addition to the explosion of a portion of the building and the freight in that portion, twelve freight cars, which were loaded, were totally destroyed.

COMPANY STANDS PAT.

Steel Prices Remain Fixed, Says Gary.

New York, Feb. 9.—Existing prices and wage scales of the United States Steel corporation are to continue, declared Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board, at a conference with newspaper men today. Some of the independent companies, he understood, had made offers to sell their products below current quotations, but he flatly asserted that the United States Steel corporation has no intention at this time of changing its selling prices. The subject of reducing wage rates among its 265,000 employees had been up for consideration, he added.

In answer to charges by Comptroller of the Currency Williams that steel prices are too high, Judge Gary pointed out that these products had twice been reduced since the end of the war and that his corporation continued to maintain the quotations of the United States Steel corporation has no intention at this time of changing its selling prices. The subject of reducing wage rates among its 265,000 employees had been up for consideration, he added.

He was optimistic regarding the general outlook for the nation, but asserted that existing governmental taxes and the failure of the government to pay what it owes the nation are the principal factors retarding the return to more satisfactory conditions.

A party of four hundred persons committed suicide in Hungary during 1920. In addition there were more than 10,000 unsuccessful attempts at suicide.

MANY FARM WORKERS GATHER AT ROANOKE

Representative of Seven States, Including South Carolina, Talk of Problems.

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 9.—Addressing the four-day session of the Agricultural College of Kentucky, the delegates of the Southern Farm Workers' Union, which met here today, discussed the problems of the farm workers in the South. The delegates, who were from seven states, including South Carolina, discussed the problems of the farm workers in the South.

Dr. Frank Taylor, as his subject, "How to Improve the Four-H Work for County Boys and Girls," declared that the four "H's" refer to the development of "head, hand, health and heart" of the members and added that the idea is derived from the four-footed dog.

Dr. Cooper discussed methods of supervising club work and reviewed the various problems, which he said, concern the supervision and efficient operation of club work.

Other speakers today were Dr. John R. Hutcheson, director of extension work in Virginia, and C. G. Burr, state agent for the boys' and girls' clubs.

DEAD IN WOODS

Fewed With Throat Cut—May Have Taken Life His Own Hand.

Newberry, Feb. 8.—A message reached the city this afternoon at 6 o'clock from the western part of the county, two miles from Vaughnville that "Will Cook, a farmer, living with his family in the home of his father-in-law, George A. Booser, on the Ninety-six road, was found dead this afternoon in a place of woods near the home. His throat was cut and it is believed that he came to his death by his own hand. In the message intelligence, that reached the city with the call for the coroner's particulars were given, and no cause was assigned for the act.

The dead man was about 40 years of age and was of a very strong and robust physique, and was not of a melancholy disposition. He is survived by his wife and several children. The coroner may go out tonight to hold the inquest.

FRED L. BLACKMON DEAD.

Alabama Representative Dies Suddenly in Florida.

Aniston, Ala., Feb. 8.—Fred L. Blackmon, representative in congress from the Fourth Alabama district for the past ten years, who died suddenly at Aniston, Ala., Monday night, will be interred here Thursday morning. Arrangements were completed today for a delegation of the city council to meet the body at Aniston Wednesday morning.

The body of the late Blackmon was taken to Aniston by a special train and will be buried in the city cemetery. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

GERMANS DISPLAY HATRED OF FRENCH

Blame France for Most of the Post-war Ills of the German Nation.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—Recurrence of the war spirit of the German people, which even as late as six months ago apparently had been completely banished, recently has assumed a new and noticeable aspect, particularly in relation to the French who generally are blamed for most of the post-war ills of the German nation.

Civilians and former soldiers alike frankly express the most intense hatred for the French and again are dreaming of a day when they can even in war what they have lost in peace. There is no evidence of ill-will against the English and toward the Americans, of whom much is expected, commercially, there is every indication of good-will.

England on the whole has been credited with a desire for fair play in the execution of the peace treaty, but in many sources the opinion prevails that France is destined to have her way, even at the expense of the integrity of the German nation. This applied to the situation before the amount of the German indemnity was fixed.

Astirring in certain French circles for an independent South Germany, probably under the domination of Bavaria; the alleged pro-French attitude of the French military in the Upper Silesian case; the insistence of the French that the Elzweinehr and other "protective" organizations shall at once disarm troops of a military occupation of the Rhur district; and use of French negro troops in the occupied zone, all have contributed to this revival of race hatred.

Delivery of French troops to the French has in view of the military shortage in Germany and the increase in infant mortality intensified the feeling among the civilian population against the French people.

A German government official with whom the correspondent discussed the situation did not agree with some men who once held high commissions in the army that "another struggle with France is a natural consequence of French conduct." He believed, however, that superficial aspects had led to exaggerated opinions of the war-spirit of the German people.

"For example German army uniforms may be seen everywhere," he said, "and especially in the universities. The strange impression is created by the fact that this is an exhibition of the military spirit. The fact is that many soldiers, and they apply particularly to soldiers of the French army, are not so much as they have no shirts. They are too poor to buy other clothes."

However, the thought "that other things being equal, the Germans should be willing to promptly accept a settlement of all accounts with the French."

The West Virginia State penitentiary will soon be self-supporting. A coal mine on state property will be operated by the prisoners. The new mine is now within eight feet of the surface and will produce 150 tons of coal each week.

Peat contains from 80 to 90 per cent of water and is a poor fuel.

LATEST AERIAL PROPHECY.

Investor Predicts Paris to New York in Eight Hours.

Paris, Feb. 12.—Paris to New York in eight hours is the latest aerial prophecy. It is made by Marquis Paterna Pescara, a French born subject of Spain, who has perfected a device for aerial navigation which by means of helices rotating at terrific speed he asserts will enable an airplane to hover in the air as well as fly at a great pace. He has just secured a deal with the French government to deliver a large number of his flying machines, providing tests in Barcelona early next month prove as successful as were the initial trials when Marquis Pescara arose suddenly to a great height and without difficulty landed within a few feet of a chosen spot.

Marquis Pescara said that in building the airplane of the future, wing spaces would not be taken into account, since helices placed above and below the body of the flying craft would be sufficient to lift perpendicularly to the higher altitudes heavy machines with heavy motors capable of developing a speed of four hundred miles an hour and also keep the plane in a fixed position when desired.

But apart from the commercial aspects of the possibilities of Marquis Pescara's invention, the French appear to be most interested in its possible military use. The inventor declared that in the event of a world war his helices would make anchored observation balloons unnecessary, and that by the use of his flying machine maximum efficiency would be attained in the bombardment of enemy towns from great heights, as tons of bombs could be carried well beyond the range of modern anti-aircraft guns.

SMITH TAKES ISSUE WITH GOVERNMENT

Introduces Resolution to Ascertain Volume of Cotton Used.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The government, which maintains that there is a certain large amount of cotton in the South, does the South in the price of the staple, in the opinion of Senator Smith of South Carolina.

In order that the facts might be known to the senator Smith this afternoon introduced a resolution requiring the agricultural committee of the senate to conduct a thorough investigation of the situation. As a result, actual available supply will be ascertained.

Senator Smith believes the department estimate and the estimate of the cotton is a sufficiently large. He found that the truth is developed the world will be astounded that its available supply of cotton is so great.

The resolution which authorizes an investigation not only as to the amount and grades of cotton, but of what else, will prevail, it is indicated.

YOUNG MAN IN MAIL

William Quinn to Be Tried Tomorrow.

Dayton, Feb. 13.—A young white man giving his name as William Quinn of California, who was arrested yesterday in Deland and shot down and retaken after escaping from officers, will be given a preliminary hearing there Monday on a charge of making an "attack on a young woman, according to advice received here tonight. The man gained entrance into the woman's home last night in the absence of her husband on pretense of wanting to sell furniture, police say. After he gazed the woman, he suddenly turned and fired. While being taken to jail, he broke away and was shot. It was said his wounds were not serious enough to delay the trial Monday.

TO RELEASE ANTI-SLAVE

Lack of Evidence to Bring Dismissed.

Williamson, W. Va., Feb. 13.—Strong opposition has been expressed by the prosecuting officers that would court open here tomorrow whether the defendants in the trial resulting from the shooting of a woman, who was being taken to jail, be released or not. It will make the third time the state has taken this power since the beginning of the trial.

Col. Jackson Arnold of the state constabulary is expected to arrive here some time tonight to assume charge of the situation when the federal troops leave the district. The new constabulary is hourly expected.

ON MAKING MISTAKES.

By H. Addington Bruce.

The business world abounds in big winners. But it is conspicuously short in winners who can boast of an error second the size of the game of life. Ask any one of those who have won to the top, and it is almost a certainty you will be told:

"Mistakes! Of course I have made mistakes. My career is peppered with them. Every man is bound to make mistakes who keeps trying hard to get on."

Or you may be informed, more elaborately, after the manner of Wayland, that the man who never makes a mistake and I will show you one who never makes anything. The capacity for occasional blundering is inseparable from the capacity to bring things to pass.

ON MAKING MISTAKES.

The business world abounds in big winners. But it is conspicuously short in winners who can boast of an error second the size of the game of life. Ask any one of those who have won to the top, and it is almost a certainty you will be told:

"Mistakes! Of course I have made mistakes. My career is peppered with them. Every man is bound to make mistakes who keeps trying hard to get on."

Or you may be informed, more elaborately, after the manner of Wayland, that the man who never makes a mistake and I will show you one who never makes anything. The capacity for occasional blundering is inseparable from the capacity to bring things to pass.

"For the matter of that, wise or foolish, all of us are sure to make mistakes some time or other. The only people who make no mistakes are dead people."

"If you are a man last week who has not made a mistake for 4,000 years. He was a mummy in the Egyptian department of the museum."

There is a vast difference between the mistake making of the wise and of the foolish. The foolish do not appreciate the mistakes of other men, but they do on making the same mistakes to the end of their days. The wise recognize their mistakes, profit from the recognition, and are careful not to repeat them.

It is, for example, a serious mistake to give way to anger in one's dealings. Anger not only breeds mistakes, but it also breeds in others, but because of its damaging effects on mind and body, it impairs the efficiency of the one who indulges in it.

The wise man, noting the evil products of anger, irritability, silliness, and the like, will not let himself be carried away by it. He will control his feelings, if only to safeguard his bread and butter interests.

"Keep cool" is his constant admonition to himself. "You will gain nothing and may lose a great deal by flying into a passion. So why do it?"

The foolish man, on the opposite will let his feelings govern him year after year. He may even feel proud of his hair trigger readiness to react wrathfully to whatever displeases him.

"Nobody can bulldoze me," he boasts. "Nobody can tread on my toes and get away with it. I'll show 'em what's what!"

So with other follies, all too plainly. And though he thereby flatters himself far more than he does those who give him offense, he continues through life an ill tempered brute simply because he is too foolish to inquire into the cause of the painful consequences his incessant wrathfulness brings upon him.

So with other follies inviting mistakes. The wise, however prone to make them, quickly learn the lesson they teach. The foolish, however, never do. They wonder why they flounder all their days in the morasses of adversity.

The world's highest peak lies in Tibet north of the British Indian and no European has ever approached nearer than 69 miles from its base. The foot of the mountain is Youngling, the British soldier-explorer, will attempt to climb to its summit next summer.

COMPERS AFRAID OF BILL TO REGULATE PRICES OF COAL

Washington, Feb. 10.—Unlabeled trades unions are "affirmatively and positively" opposed to the Capper bill for government regulation of the coal industry, organized labor's opposition to it will be unyielding. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, told a senate committee, The federation chief's statement, together with previous ones, has been taken into consideration before the committee over an allegation by Representative Hamilton, demagog, Alabama, to the effect that the bill would "take the life out of the coal industry."

Mr. Hamilton's statement was flatly denied by J. D. Morrow, vice president of the A. F. of L., and when the representative said he had stenographic transcripts of director meetings in view, the federation chief said he would do the same. He called upon W. B. Reed, secretary of the association, to produce original copies of all of them. Reed was informed that all of them had been removed after being summarized in formal public documents. JUDGE GAGE.
The following editorial appeared in this morning's Columbia State:
"An accomplished, studious and diligent lawyer and jurist, Associate Justice George W. Gage, was, indeed, a gentleman of a rare courtesy and sweetness of heart and manner that endeared him to a wide circle of associates and made them his friends. His life was without reproach; he was devoted to his church and the duties of private and domestic life found in him an exemplar of usefulness in his community to be long remembered with sorrow and affection."
"Of mind well poised and broadly informed, of an understanding sympathy with the people of the state and familiar with its history and affairs, he brought to the bench of our highest court a conception of its obligations that contributed actively to the maintenance of its traditional standards of rectitude and his judgments bore the mark of legal scholarship and lucid comprehension of law and equity."
"Probably not before in the whole history of South Carolina have two members of the supreme bench passed away within a month and while the General Assembly was in session. The late Justice Hydrick and Justice Gage have left to the court records precious in it and honorable to the commonwealth."

Time Of Present Government.
Our good neighbor Rock Hill, is timing of her present commission government and the complaints, etc., of late have been frequent and heavy. The following from the Rock Hill Herald indicates that they expect to make a change in the near future:
"Our Attorney Spencer presented a draft of an amendment to the present form of government, increasing the number of councilmen from three to five, as commissioners, and two councilmen to be elected at the regular election next January, one of the councilmen to serve for one and a half years, and two commissioners would be elected on even years and a mayor and two councilmen on odd years. This was approved by the members and it will go to the legislature for passage, subject to ratification by the voters of the city at a special election to be held in May."

"Tryme"—The New Drink.
The City Recorder's roster indicates that some people living in this prohibition country of ours have been able to secure something which made them feel like the world was theirs, giving them the right to do and act as they might choose. In other words, the docket indicates that in Chester some people are paying fines on account of having been drunk and disorderly.

The latest drink on the local market comes in a small bottle and is labeled "Tryme." The label states that the concoction contains ninety-five per cent of alcohol and it does not take much of a mathematician to figure out that the drink is practically all alcohol.
It is stated that "Tryme" followed or mixed with a soft drink makes a pretty good swallow for a toper and that a few drinks make him "high."

It will be recalled that the legislature of 1918 passed a law requiring all who sell extracts to make the purchaser sign for it but The News ascertains that this practice has been discontinued, not because the law has been repealed but because it is not being enforced.
Yes, all kinds of concoctions are being sold as extracts, cure-alls, etc., but instead of being used according to directions they are being taken in large quantities and once this stuff gets on the inside of a man he is liable to do many kinds of stunts, and to even feel rich, they say.

In the last issue of the Rock Hill Record their Edgemoor correspondent had the following to say in the last paragraph of his communication: "What is wrong with Chester? Are they so mad at Eastern Chester that they will never build the bridge across Fishing Creek any more? 'He that knoweth his duty and doeth it shall not shall be beaten with many stripes.' Many things, unavoidable on the part of Chester county officials, have happened to retard the construction of this bridge. Owing to the financial depression the manufacturers of this bridge delayed the work several weeks, and only recently heavy rains and high waters have also delayed the work. However, we understand that the completion of the bridge will be rushed all possible. In conclusion we would like to quote the following for the benefit of the above mentioned correspondent: "But hard be hardened, blind be blinded more; That they may stumble on, and deeper fall."

CREDIT COUNTS—USE YOURS

Every man is gauged by other men on the credit he commands. Credit turns the wheels of the world. It is the biggest asset you have. Are you using your credit?
Why not furnish that home you have been planning? Credit will do it. Why not buy that new dining room suite the wife has been wanting? Credit will do that too.
By buying today you can save money and we will let you pay in such small weekly payments that you will hardly notice it.
Ask us all about our plan.

Those wishing to buy at this Stock Reducing Sale for the future may have goods stored with us at no extra charge. We prepay the freight on all goods over $10 purchased.
